lines between things is an immersive, multimedia exhibition of comics, sculpture and audio art created in collaboration with community members.

Originally co-curated by Anahita Dehbonehie, Sharada Eswar and Áine Schryer-O'Gorman, the exhibit was part of Jumblies' larger multi-disciplinary project – blue skies, red earth & tall pines. The project was born out of a desire to engage with narratives and stories about borders and the crossing of borders. “With storytelling as our compass, we journeyed through the intricate web of physical, metaphorical and spiritual borders. In the intimate narratives of community members crossing visible and invisible borders, we found echoes of shared humanity and a universal language that resonates across communities and continents.”

All the works presented in the exhibit are created through Jumblies' usual practice of community-artist collaboration, with community participants deeply involved in the design, and creation of the work.

Exhibit will remain at AN1 Studios, 2465 Cawthra Road, Unit #132, Mississauga from May 17th to 30th.
